It's not quite as bad with the firmware (haven't loaded the newer one yet) but still does relatively frequently want to drop out and re-sync at half the speed it should (eg can sync around but drops down to) which is a real pain. The Billion BiPac N is an amazing router. It has the capabilities to download at high speed over wireless and through an Ethernet connection. Even with 4 mobile phones, 3 Laptops, one XBOX and a desktop computer all running simultaneously, the speeds remained constant better yet, the wireless range is absolutely amazing, managing to.
